Here's a quick rundown:

- Origin:

Viberate began as a music data company, catering to industry professionals with unparalleled analytics. Their expansion now focuses on equipping artists with various tools, some free and others at an annual rate of $39.

- Free Artist Websites:

Viberate boasts the world's largest crowdsourced artist database. Every verified artist gets a free website, packed with essential information such as genre, top songs, events, audience demographics, and more. These sites are sleek, auto-updated, and share-ready.

- Playlist Pitching:

Once your music's out there, Viberate aids in promotion with a comprehensive Spotify playlist pitching tool. This gives access to a chart ranking over 12M playlists. The filtering capabilities are, in a word, outstanding. Want to pitch to indie-curated House music playlists with certain followers and new song percentages? You can do just that.

In a world where digital presence and data-driven decisions are pivotal, Viberate for Artists seems like a game-changer for independent musicians aiming to elevate their game.

Thoughts, experiences, questions?

Would love to hear from any artists who've given this a go!
